The World's Fair at Night.

Viewing the buildings of the fair from a distance at night imbues one with the idea that he is transported to some place etherial.

The illumination of the World's fair buildings is the most beautiful sight imaginable.

The Cascade with the floating gondolas is the most attractive point at the fait.

Next to the buildings comes the Pike with its varying amusements.

The Indians with their squaws and papeoses look very pleturesque. The Hindoos and Egyptians with their (rightal costumer also excite admiration.

The Fill ino soldiers in their tan and blue unitorms attract attenthor The most enrious features of the fair are the bearrages.

The Ellipino reservation with 10 clartehed houses of bamb o make one think he bein the midst of the torrid replication.
